

About Richard A. Bevan

Richard was very passionate about safety and he always jumped into things with both feet. Richard's career in safety stemmed from an opportunity when he became part of his companies' safety team and his safety career was consolidated by working with multiple companies for many years.

Fueled by his passion for safety, Richard devoted himself to attain the highest safety related level of education, and finally achieved a degree in safety.

Safety was Richard's focus for everything he did. He knew all the answers to safety questions and everything past and present, about the Incident Prevention Association of Manitoba (IPAM). Richard provided support and guidance and was a compendium of knowledge in safety for life in general.

Richard devoted all his energy to ensuring a safe work environment not only for himself, but for all workers in general, wherever his career led him.

His commitment to safety made a difference.
